

Fresh, Packaged. Ready to Go.

The Q Series delivers premium grab-and-go merchandising through a compact, modular refrigerated platform designed for performance, flexibility, and elevated presentation.

Our new modular platform introduces a breakthrough approach to merchandising environments. By combining refrigerated and ambient building blocks in a fully scalable, self-contained format, retailers can now create the kind of distinctive lineups previously achievable only through large-scale custom grocery installations.

Each module is engineered to connect and build upon the next, enabling flexible layouts that adapt to any footprint. A curated selection of standard colors, finishes, and material options brings elevated branding opportunities to every project—supporting strong department identities without the cost or lead time of custom millwork.

Engineered for Type II Environments

Maintains critical product temperatures in high-traffic, high-heat retail conditions.

Fresh Food, Fast Access

Designed for quick shopper interaction and efficient restocking.

Self-Contained Refrigeration

Plug-and-play operation—no remote systems required.

Compact Footprint

Fits through standard 36" doorways for easier installation and relocation.

Modular Design. Flexible Merchandising.

Q Series units are built on a modular platform that allows operators to create tailored merchandising lineups using standardized components. Units connect seamlessly to form linear runs or corner layouts—delivering a custom look with speed and reliability.

Multiple finish and material options allow each installation to align with brand standards, supporting a higher-end retail experience without custom lead times.
